Abstract :

Industrialization and urbanization are challenging the world and this has called for a worldwide effort to develop a more sustainable world. Unsustainable practices have led to climate change, biodiversity loss and pollution. Through sustainable development we aim at safeguarding the interests of the future generations, but also try to address the concerns of our contemporaries and counterparts across the globe. And for this we must begin with the early years. Scientific research has confirmed that early years sets the foundation for later years development. Early years are pivotal or critical for the development of the individual, both at physical and psychological level. This article focuses on the effective ways to construct a sustainable world by focusing on early childhood education. It is during early childhood years that children develop their basic values, attitudes, skills, behaviours, and habits which may be long lasting. "Reduce, Recycle and Reuse" can be the mantra for intelligent sustainable early childhood education. The three pillars of sustainable development i.e. environment & ecology, economy and society & culture can be used to frame the curriculum of sustainable development during early years. Early childhood educators can play a very important role in this education. Educators can provide children opportunities to learn and experience about cultures and nature, thereby learning to respect them. Through this education, children can learn about how human lives depend on nature and how resources of nature can be used wisely.

Key Words : Early childhood education, Early childhood educators, Reduce, Recycle, Reuse sustainable development.

Introduction :

"The greatest lessons in life, if we would but stoop and humble ourselves, we would learn not from grown-up learned men, but from the so-called ignorant children" - M.K. Gandhi

What is sustainable development?

"Development that meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs" 1987 Bruntland Commission Report, United Nations.

Through sustainable development we aim at safeguarding the interests of the future generations, but also try to address the concerns of our contemporaries and counterparts across the globe. Sustainable development aims to attain a state of society where living conditions and resources are used to continue to meet human needs without undermining the integrity and stability of the environment.

Development has brought many gains to the societies, however this development in many cases is unsustainable. Unsustainable practices have led to climate change, biodiversity loss and pollution. Repercussions of unsustainable practices have impacted the developing world more acutely especially among the poor and deprived. To meet the vital needs, the poor use and overuse all the resources available at hand. Poverty provokes population growth, violence and war which is harmful

In today's digitally connected world, the influence of social media has transformed the landscape of marketing strategies, particularly within the restaurant industry. This literature review aims to explore the causes and effects of influencer marketing on established restaurants in Nagpur, shedding light on its significance and implications.

Influencer marketing has gained significant traction in recent years due to the proliferation of social media platforms such as Instagram, Facebook, and Twitter. As traditional advertising methods struggle to resonate with modern consumers, influencer marketing offers a more authentic and relatable approach to brand promotion (Brown & Hayes, 2018).

De Veirman et al. (2017) research suggests that influencers wield considerable influence over their followers, particularly in the realm of lifestyle and dining choices. Consumers perceive influencer-generated content as more trustworthy and authentic compared to traditional advertisements. This trust plays a pivotal role in driving consumer engagement and fostering brand loyalty. Followers are more inclined to patronize establishments recommended by influencers they admire.

For established restaurants in Nagpur, collaborating with influencers is a strategic move to reach a wider audience and enhance their brand's credibility.
